Subject: [External] comments on latest residential SDF

Hello,
I'm sorry I ran out of time for a more formal submission.

The only comment I have is that I think there should be some kind of explanation of the significance of Project Performance under the proposed table.

E.g.-If your project is determined to have low performance, you will still save on electricity costs, but you will not as much as you would under good or high performance findings.
Perhaps there could be wording below the bar that shows increased savings as you move up to high performance?

Thanks,
Kim
